UZBEKISTAN STATE WORLD LANGUAGES UNIVERSITY

Monitoring Applications and Admissions of Under-represented Groups

SDG 10 Reduced Inequalities | Reporting year 2025

Overview

Uzbekistan State World Languages University (UzSWLU) measures and tracks the applications and admissions of groups that are, or may be, under-represented in higher education. Monitoring is carried out by the Admissions Committee and the Registrar's Office for every admission campaign and is required by the UzSWLU Admissions and Access Policy, which commits the university to recording applications and admissions by sex, financial need, disability and citizenship and reviewing the results each year.

How data is collected

- Registration. Applicants register online through the national admission portal operated by the state assessment agency, as set out in Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 578 of 13 September 2025. Registration records each applicant's sex, citizenship, chosen program and any entitlement to an additional quota.
- Entitlement categories. Applicants who claim an additional quota submit supporting documents: a disability certificate (Group I or II), a recommendation letter for women from families in need, or proof of orphan status. These are recorded separately so that the university can see how many applicants and entrants come from each group.
- Financial need. The university identifies students from the bottom financial quintile through social registers and documented family circumstances; these students are tracked from admission through to completion.
- First-generation status. New entrants report whether they are the first in their immediate family to study at university.
- Enrollment register. After admission, every student's record in the student register keeps the same categories, so the university can follow retention and graduation for each group.

Results for the 2024–2025 intake

The figures below come from the university's admission and enrollment records and are reviewed by the Admissions Committee after each campaign.

Group monitored	Number	Share	Reference base
First-year students admitted, 2024–2025	5,834	100%	All new entrants
Women among first-year students	5,115	87.7%	of 5,834 new entrants
Men among first-year students	719	12.3%	of 5,834 new entrants
Low-income (bottom financial quintile) students admitted	1,187	20.3%	of 5,834 new entrants
First-generation students starting a degree	3,114	53.4%	of 5,834 new entrants

Group monitored	Number	Share	Reference base
Students with disabilities enrolled	226	1.0%	of 22,208 students
International students	410	—	19 countries of citizenship
International students from low and lower-middle income countries	81	19.8%	of 410 international students

How the data is used

- Women. Monitoring shows a strong majority of women among new entrants. The data is used to target outreach in subjects where women remain fewer, such as international journalism.
- Low-income students. 1,187 students from the bottom financial quintile were admitted. Their completion is followed individually: of 618 target-group students expected to complete in 2025, 607 completed (98.2%).
- Students with disabilities. The 226 students with disabilities are each assigned a personal tutor, and their numbers inform planning for accessible facilities and adapted learning materials.
- International students. Citizenship data shows students from 19 countries; 81 come from low and lower-middle income countries and receive university-administered support.
